Struck it Rich in Ontario

Mr. Richard A. Cartwright, of Brockport, and Mr. Jos. L. Wheeler, of Emporium, returned from their Canadian silver claims last Saturday and report a rich strike on their property. The Toronto World has the following relative to the Temiskaming Mining Company: "New discoveries and good ones, are being made. The Dagle find is interesting because it locates the existence of the Cross Lake formations one and one-half miles farther south than hereto known. This property is now owned by the Temiskaming Mining Company. They have had men working, and while trenching they struck an eight inch silver coriamb vein. A piece of the cap rock was knocked off, and it assays 4000 ounces to the ton. The vein is less than five feet from the surface. The following are the officers of the Temiskaming Mining Company: R. A. Cartwright, President; B. E. Cartwright, Vice President; C. A. Richardson, Sec'y; Jos. L. Wheeler, Treasurer. They have large claims, comprising about five hundred acres, located four hundred miles north of Toronto. Hope they will make millions.

Sudden Death.

Freda, the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Summerson died suddenly of heart disease about 6:30 Monday morning at her home at Sterling Run. She was 13 years and five months old. A short time previous to her death she was apparently resting peacefully and it was a terrible shock to her parents to find their little child dead without a moments warning. It is thought that over exertion while playing in the woods Sunday was the cause of her death. Dr. Corbett of Driftwood was called at once and after examining the child pronounced the cause of the child's death due to heart failure.

Freda was a very bright child and her loving disposition and her winning ways won the hearts of all who knew her. The grief-stricken parents have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in their great bereavement.

The funeral was held at Sterling Run, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, the Rev. M. Ebersole, officiated. The remains were buried in Sterling Run cemetery.

Our darling child has left us,
From earth she's called away,
To a home that is brighter and fairer,
Where shines eternal day.

We know she is with the angels,
Her soul is free from care,
And her dear dear Saviour she's waiting,
To welcome her loved ones there.

Were Misinformed.

In our account of the accident to little Martin Yeager, the boy who was run over by a wagon last week, we were misinformed as to his nationality. The notice should have read "German" instead of Hungarian. The little fellow was not as seriously injured as was at first supposed. His collarbone was broken and he was otherwise bruised, but he is getting along nicely. His parents wish to thank the kind people of Emporium for their assistance during their trouble.

Dr. A. W. Baker for Coroner.

The many admiring friends of Dr. Albra W. Baker will be pleased to learn the genial gentleman has been placed in nomination for Coroner by the Republicans of Lycoming county. When a resident of Cameron county, several years ago, Dr. Baker, very acceptably served as Coroner and carefully conducted the office to the entire satisfaction of the tax-payers. Lycoming will make no mistake if they elect him.

Right you Are, Neighbor.

There is always some uncertainty about the selection of a congressional candidate, but we will be very much surprised if the Republican nomination doesn't hit pretty close to that stalwart veteran and clean cut citizen of Cameron county, Capt. Barclay.—Curwensville Review.

Ice Cream Social.

There will be an ice cream social held on the 15th and 16th of this month by the Junior Choir of the Emmanuel church, at the residence of Mrs. Bennett Leutze on Broad street. The proceeds will be used for the erection of a union church at Cameron. You are cordially invited to bring your friends.

Emporiumites in Germany.

Eglengen, Germany,
May 18, 1906.

The following letter was received by Miss Kate Zimmitt from her sister Mrs. Jos. Kinsler who is one of the Emporiumites now on a visit to Germany:

"We arrived here yesterday all right had a fine voyage, the weather was fine. We are all well. Left New York on May 4, and landed in Liverpool, Eng., May 13. We were detained about one day owing to our boat running on a sand bank in the harbor, and we had to wait until the tide came back.

We traveled through England and Holland. We spent two days in London and had a fine time; from there we went to the Hook of Holland and from there to Stuttgart, where we spent two days; from there to Comsteg and from there to Wadlinger, here grandma's uncle and his son, also Blumle's relatives met us with six covered carriages and a wagon for our baggage. The carriages were trimmed up with flowers and wreaths. The houses were all trimmed with flowers and greens and all the children had bouquets in their hands to give to us. We will stay here one week and then we go to Dillingen."

A Prominent Cameron County Citizen Passes Away.

Mr. David S. Logue died at his residence in Huntley at two o'clock, p. m., Thursday, May 31st, after a lingering illness of six months. His death was caused by catarrh of the stomach, which developed later to quick consumption.

Mr. Logue received the best medical attendance that could be secured and was also taken to an eminent specialist in Chicago, with the hopes that he could be relieved, but medical aid was unavailing and death ended his sufferings upon the last day of May.

Mr. Logue, though a terrible sufferer was very patient in his rational moments. He was a true christian, kind and loving husband and father, a good neighbor and exemplary citizen. His loss will be felt by the people throughout Cameron county, where he had many warm friends.

Mr. Logue was born May 12, 1838, in the Logue homestead, which is the same house where his death occurred. He was 68 years and 19 days old at the time of his death. He is survived by a wife, five sons and three daughters of whom are one son in the state of Washington, one daughter in Superior, Wis., and one daughter in Chicago, Ill. The balance of the children (four sons and one daughter) were at his bedside when he died. Mr. Logue is also survived by three brothers and four sisters as follows: Wm. Logue of Huntley, Malvin Logue of First Fork, Pa., Enoch Logue of Oakland Cal., Mrs. Mary Nelson of Wharton, Mrs. Lizzie Marsh of Grays Run, Pa., Mrs. Charlotte Johnson of Owego, N. Y., and Mrs. W. Whitney of Superior, Wis.

The funeral was held from the Huntley church, Sunday June 3rd at two o'clock, p. m., the Rev. Noble officiating, funeral director LaBar of Emporium having charge of the burial.

The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community in their great sorrow.

Another loved one has been called,
From earth to heaven above;
To greet the gentle Saviour,
And share his boundless loves.

And though we deeply mourn for him,
We know his pain has ceased;
For his soul is with the angels now,
In realms of perfect peace.

Governor Pennypacker Honors Cameron County

JUDGE B. W. GREEN.

B. W. Green Appointed President Judge of 25th District, Composed of Clinton Cameron and Elk Counties.

Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker wired Judge B. W. Green and Hon. Josiah Howard, last Friday that he had appointed Mr. Green President Judge of this judicial district, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge Chas. A. Mayer. No public official announcement however was made until Monday evening. The Press, as well as many supporters of Judge Green know the appointment had been made. The news soon spread around town and scores of our citizens, regardless of party affiliations, called during the day and tendered their congratulations and cordial support. This being the first instance in the history of this county that we have been honored with a district nomination or election, our people took fresh courage, believing that the time had arrived to push our just claims. Every honorable means will be put forward to secure the support of Clinton and Elk in favor of Judge Green's nomination and election.

The Republican party of this district, as well as other districts, believe in keeping the judiciary out of politics, therefore declined to nominate a candidate against the late Judge Mayer. Now that the Governor has filled the vacancy on the bench with an able gentleman, a clean and learned law year, it will be just and proper to endorse the wise course of Governor Pennypacker by making Mr. Green the popular candidate of both parties. If we mistake not the disposition of the people the sentiment is so strong for the election of Judge Green that no opposition can break down the people's choice.

SHORT BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

Hon. Benjamin W. Green was born near Mansfield, Tioga county, and passed his early days upon a farm. In the first year of the organization of the Mansfield Normal school he entered that institution and under the instruction of Prof. F. A. Allen, graduated in 1868, after a three years course. For a period of one year after graduating he taught in the schools of Tioga county, going to Emporium in 1869

(where he attained his majority and cast his first vote) to accept the principalship of the Emporium schools, which position he acceptably filled for a term of two years. At this time, in 1871, he was appointed acting sheriff of Cameron county and entered the law office of Hon. J. C. Johnson as a student. In November 1872 he was admitted to the bar of Cameron county, being the first student admitted to the courts of Cameron county. He at once actively engaged in the practice of his chosen profession, forming in 1874 a partnership with the late J. B. Newton, under the firm name of Newton & Green, and continued a member of said firm until the death of Mr. Newton.

Judge Green was elected County Treasurer of this county in 1886, receiving the second largest vote ever accorded a candidate in Cameron county. Mr. Green enjoys a wide acquaintance and large practice in the courts of Cameron and adjoining counties, also in U. S. courts.

In 1898 he was the choice of Cameron county for president judge, but gave way to the sentiment in favor of the unanimous election of Judge Mayer. He is honorable in all his dealings with men, a good citizen and a true friend to his friends. He has been repeatedly identified with the school boards of Emporium and served many years after entering the law. Mr. Green has been for a number of years actively identified with the Emmanuel Episcopal church and has served for several years as one of the wardens. He is a man of domestic habits and with his wife and daughter resides in a very commodious residence on Sixth street in Emporium borough, where he very frequently entertains his friends, the latch string always hangs on the outside. Fraternally Mr. Green is a member of Emporium Lodge 382 F. & A. M. Judge Green is a forcible speaker and is very often invited to address assemblages in adjoining counties as well as at home, especially those of laboring men. The most notable address ever delivered in Renovo to the R. R. employees was made by Judge Green several years ago.

Announcement.

Our citizens were agreeably surprised on Saturday to receive the following: "Mr. William W. Wyman, Miss Nellie S. Bryson, married, Saturday, December twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and four; Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Weiman the groom, has for several years been the very proficient chemist at Emporium Furnace laboratory, while the bride has been a clerk with the Climax Powder Co., for several years. Both have withheld their announcement until the present time, for no other purpose than to suit their business plans. Mrs. Wyman has resigned her position in the Climax office. The Press and many friends wish them many happy days.

Republican State Convention.

The Republican State Convention met at Harrisburg yesterday and placed the following excellent ticket in nomination:

For Governor—Edwin S. Stuart, of Philadelphia.

For Lieutenant Governor—Robert S. Murphy, of Johnstown.

For Auditor General—Robert K. Young, of Wellsboro.

For Secretary of Internal Affairs—Henry Houck, of Lebanon.

The convention was one of the largest ever held in this state, not one-half of those present being able to gain admittance to the Lyceum Theatre. Hon. M. E. Olmsted, of Harrisburg, was elected chairman of convention. Only one roll call was necessary to decide each nomination, the solid Philadelphia delegation casting its 117 votes for the successful candidates.

W. R. Andrews was re-elected State Chairman, there being no opposition. The ticket is a strong one and will command the full vote of the party.

Emporium Opera House.

Really the most extraordinary attraction of the season will be presented at the New Opera House on Saturday, June 9th on which occasion Manager Butler has booked S. Lubin's wonderful Life Motion Pictures of the Great San Francisco Earthquake and Fire. A great many people skeptically inclined, are apt to wonder how it is possible for any Moving Picture Film to get the actual views of the destruction. In this case it would have been an impossibility, only for the fact that Mr. Lubin, who is known, is the pioneer of this enterprise and the largest manufacturer in the world; has in every large city a corps of operators ready at all times to get new and interesting views. They were first on the ground and these pictures or rather part of them were first shown at Keith's Theatre, at Philadelphia during the week of May 7th. You see everything just as it was. First destruction by earthquake. The great buildings swayed like reeds in a storm. They collapse. Then the unrush of the flames. The people fleeing for their lives. The arrival of the soldiers. The relief trains and all the scenes and incidents that went to make up the greatest calamity ever known in our country.

Wedding Bells.

Invitations have been received at this place announcing the marriage of William F. Mundy to Miss Bertha Mary Meisenzahl, at Centralia, Wash., Wednesday afternoon, June 6th. At home Sept. 15, 1906, Emporium, Pa. Mr. Mundy is son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mundy, respected citizens of Emporium and is sure to receive the hearty congratulations for himself and bride when they arrive in Emporium.

Chas. E. Voelk, of Erie, and Miss Ella M. Morrissey, of this place, were united in marriage at 11:30 o'clock, Wednesday morning in the Catholic parsonage, the Rev. Father Downey performing the ceremony in the presence of the bride's family. The bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert House of St. Marys, were best man and matron of honor respectively. Mr. and Mrs. Voelk left on the afternoon train for Erie, where they will reside. A small reception was held at the bride's home on Fifth street after the ceremony. Those present from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert House, St. Marys; Mrs. M. Friel and son James, Renovo and Mrs. Harry Steel, Kane. The Press extends congratulations to the young couple.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

TAYLOR.
The sudden death of WILLIAM FRANKLIN TAYLOR at the Williamsport Hospital, announced in last week's Press, from injuries received in a dynamite explosion, was a great surprise to our people. His funeral from the family residence, West Allegany Avenue, last Saturday was largely attended. A quartet of male voices furnished the music. Revs. Cleaver, of M. E. Church, Robertson, Episcopal, and Bennett, Free Methodist, conducted the services. The floral offerings were very numerous and beautiful. Deceased has resided in this county for many years and was an industrious good citizen; a consistent christian and strictly honorable. He leaves one son, Harry Taylor, of Renovo, who was present at the funeral, also one stepson, Harry Derby, with whom he made his home, at this place.

Mme. Curie has explained an incident in the life of her late husband. He had the distinction of refusing the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor. His reason was a matter of speculation. One insinuation was that the great chemist had a grievance that his wife was not decorated with him; another, still less plausible, was that he did not care to accept a decoration which had never been conferred upon his father. Mme. Curie writes quietly to observe that all this is purely fantastic. M. Curie had a settled conviction that personal decorations were open to objections that outweighed their advantages and to her great joy at sharing his opinion he acted up to it in his own case. He had declined academic distinction before declining the Legion of Honor.

Scores of well-known Pittsburg citizens, according to local report, are in daily fear that some irreverent newspaper may publish their names in connection with a rather embarrassing affair. The cook in a fashionable suburban family wanted some fun and she advertised for a husband, describing herself as a "lonesome widow." Over 100 replies were received, most of them from Pittsburg professional men willing to cheer her up a little. One widower writes that his happiness passed away with the death of his first wife, but he thinks an alliance with this "lonesome widow" would do much to cheer him up again. Letters have been received from three ministers, eight lawyers and 12 doctors.

While at Naples during the recent eruption of Vesuvius King Victor, accosting a parish priest, said: "My friend, how did you escape?" The priest replied: "Your majesty, I put myself out of danger." "What do you mean?" asked the king. "Understanding the danger, I went to Oola," was the reply. His majesty rejoined, wrathfully: "What, you, God's minister, fled! Who administered the sacraments and comforted the dying? My soldiers, I suppose. You are deserving of great blame." It is said this incident created a great stir at the Vatican. The priest will probably be severely punished, as the pope is particular that priests should be at their posts in such circumstances.

Our little bronze cent, precious in metaphor and to the owners of slot machines, and the bane of the street car conductor, is under the scrutiny of a committee of congress. Experiments are making to determine whether a different metal, nickel or aluminium, is not a better material for the smallest bit of coinage; and there is a possibility that the design may be changed. Most of us will be sorry to part with a familiar friend, but we shall be willing to welcome him in any new form, and the more of him the merrier.

From a reliable source we learn that young spring elephants are down to $1,400 apiece and are to be had in quantities at a much lower figure. For tender "broilers" the price is ridiculously low and it would be a wise plan for large consumers of the gustatory delicacy to provide against a rise in the market, which is almost certain to follow the announcement of the unprecedented low price. Furthermore, here is the longed-for opportunity to pop it to the beef trust.

An English medical journal inveighs against the brushing of clothes as a "clumsy and unsanitary procedure which might with advantage be superseded by some more effective and less offensive method. The use of some kind of vacuum brush for the purpose would, sanitarily speaking, be ideal."

An eastern college professor says that men should do all the cooking. The world has had enough of pies like mother used to make and what it yearns for is sausage like father used to fry and ice cream like daddy turned the wringer for.

BOMB THROWER

Tried to Murder King Alfonso on Wedding Day.

KILLED 16 PEOPLE.

The King and Bride Were Returning to the Palace, After Wedding, When Bomb Was Hurled.

Madrid, Spain.—Spain has a new queen. Princess Victoria Eugenie of Battenberg, familiarly known as Princess Ena, and King Alfonso of Spain, were united in marriage at noon Thursday in the church of San Jeronimo. Royal pomp signaled the marriage, which was performed by a cardinal of the Roman Catholic church in the presence of a distinguished assemblage of Old World royalty, special envoys from nearly all the nations of the world, and distinguished representatives of the Spanish nation.

The public rejoicings over the marriage of King Alfonso and Princess Victoria had a terrible dramatic sequel at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon as a bomb thrown from an upper window exploded with deadly effect near the coach occupied by the king and queen. Providentially King Alfonso and Queen Victoria escaped by an electric wire deflecting the bomb, but at least 16 persons, most of them being of the personal and military escort, were killed. Many others were injured.

The explosion occurred just as the royal couple were about to enter the palace. The route of the procession from the church had been diverted from Arsenal street to Mayor street, owing to the popular desires. The procession had just passed through Mayor street and was about to turn into the esplanade leading to the palace when an explosion shook the buildings in the vicinity, stunning a large number of people and throwing the cortege into confusion.

The royal coach was brought to a sudden stop by the shock, officers and soldiers of the escort falling to the ground about the querry and horses that had been killed. The screams of the terrified multitude mingled with the groans of the dying. It was immediately seen that the royal coach was intact except that it had been damaged by flying splinters. King Alfonso immediately alighted and assisted Queen Victoria out of the carriage. They then entered another coach and were driven swiftly to the palace.

The place from which the bomb was thrown is a boarding house. The chamber from which the missile was hurled was taken May 22 by a man from Barcelona giving the name of Moral. When the police surrounded the house the man attempted to flee, but was captured. Another man escaped over the roofs of houses.

As a curious coincidence it is just a year ago yesterday that a bomb was thrown at King Alfonso in Paris. As the king, accompanying President Loubet, was driving away from a performance at the opera, May 31, 1905, an anarchist threw a bomb at the royal carriage. It struck a trooper of the cuirassier escort on the shoulder, fell to the ground and exploded without injuring the king or the president.

DEATH CAME SWIFTLY.

Pendennis White, a Buffalo Millionaire, Is Killed in an Automobile Accident.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Pendennis White, a millionaire banker and lumberman, was killed and Edwin A. Bell and Richard B. Lyman, stock brokers, were injured in a collision between an automobile and a trolley car on Hertel avenue last night.

The three men had been at the Country club for dinner and were returning to town in an automobile. Mr. Bell, who owned the car, was driving. A trolley car which had been running ahead of the automobile slowed down for a crossing. Mr. Bell swerved to the left to avoid it, not noticing that another trolley car was approaching from the west at high speed. The eastbound car and the automobile met with terrific force.

Mr. White was hurled 50 feet and instantly killed, his neck being broken. Mr. Bell and Mr. Lyman were hurled through the windows of the trolley car. They were badly cut, but miraculously escaped fatal injury.

Pendennis White was 48 years old. He was a member of the firm of White, Gratwick & Mitchell, wholesale lumber dealers of North Tonawanda, and of the firm of Stevens, Eaton & Co., of New York. He was president of the Lumber Insurance Co.

VICTORY OF GOVERNMENT.

Triumph of Anti-Trust Law Reflects Credit Upon Republican Administration.

The complete surrender of the paper trust of the northwest in the action brought by the attorney general of the United States buttresses strongly the anti-trust law. The triumph of the government in this case is particularly noticeable, says the Troy Times, because it was the result of a decision by the United States supreme court compelling witnesses to testify, and overruling their objection that the testimony might incriminate themselves or their corporations.

Moreover, the result is substantially an admission that manufacturing corporations which establish a common sales agency and thus limit their power of competition have formed a combination in restraint of trade. Similar action by railroad companies in pooling traffic had already been declared illegal, but the decision at that time did not cover manufacturing corporations. While in the paper trust case it cannot be definitely stated that the scope of the law is so far reaching, all the indications of the supreme court's decision and of the surrender by the defense point that way.

Recent litigation and its results have established two things very clearly: First, that the power of existing statutes to control oppressive and restricting combinations in trade is very great, and second, that the laws are being enforced with vigor and with intelligence. President Roosevelt and his subordinates in executive office have shown again and again their fidelity to the duties imposed upon them and their determination to prosecute fearlessly and indefatigably, in the interests of the people, those huge combinations of capital that have taken the place and have exercised the authority of the feudalism of the middle ages.

ARE DOING WELL ENOUGH.

Radical Revision of the Tariff Would Impede Our Present National Progress.

What may be known as the shortest platform: "Resolved, That we leave well enough alone," was adopted by the Republicans of Trego county, Kansas. It is a model that might well be copied, says the Springfield (Mass.) Union.

In this state there is a strong disposition to tinker with the tariff, yet it must be admitted that the Dingley law is well high "well enough." Of course we want to make progress. To stand still is to invite defeat. We can revise the tariff in advance, but it would be most unwise to revise it in a radical manner. The years that have passed since the Dingley law was enacted have seen some changes in industrial conditions that might well be met by a revision, both up and down, but a tariff revolution is a most absurd proposition in view of present prosperity.

We may well pass laws to restrict great corporations and compel the "square deal," but it would be infinitely absurd to revolutionize conditions and hamper the progress of business by laws unnecessarily restrictive. We should compel all the great corporations to treat every man alike, and by so doing would we add to the general prosperity, but to restrict corporations so as to cripple them would but be to invite industrial disasters.

Let well enough alone and correct the evils. Evil will always exist. The greed of men will compel restrictive legislation. But in striking at the giants of finance we must always be careful not to strike the root of the conditions that have brought the country to the present high mark of prosperity.

REWARD IS DESERVED.

Country That Knows Enough to Legislate for Its Own People.

It will not be amiss to put on record that, while revisionists are rampant, stand-patters are justified in demanding that we let well enough alone. On December 18, 1905, Bradstreet's said in its weekly review: "Reports from all over the country are unanimous that all records for this stage of the season have been surpassed."

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican (Dem.), in its financial review of the Monday following put it even stronger in the following sentence: "Everywhere appear evidences of undiminished strength in the forces making for a wonderfully profitable season in trade. It is without doubt the most bountiful holiday period ever known in the experience of the American people."

We need only chronicle these statements, says the American Economist. No comment is necessary beyond a rejoicing that a country that knows enough to legislate for its own people should reap the reward it deserves.

Mr. Bryan is neither a successful nor a graceful straddler. He is at his best when standing four-square to every wind that blows, as he appeared in his first presidential campaign, but never since. He can easily sacrifice the support of his former supporters without gaining that of the conservatives, who will never trust him. Mr. Bryan seems to be getting out of touch with the broad sweep of new American policies as they are touching politics in the dawn of the twentieth century.

WAGES AND THE TARIFF.

Contention of Free Traders That Is Set at Naught by Existing Conditions.

One Mr. Brickett writes to the Boston Herald, assuming that the tariff on watches amounts to more on the output of a certain watch company than it pays for wages. The conclusion drawn, both by Mr. Brickett and the Herald is that the railway men and others requiring watches have to pay this amount for the timepieces they use in addition to their cost. It has always been the contention of the free traders, says the Lowell (Mass.) Citizen, that high duties so stimulated home production, that it soon reduced prices beyond a profitable point, and soon ruined home industry. If the watch business is so tremendously profitable, why do not more people make watches? Capital is always seeking remunerative investment, and watchmaking is not a monopoly. Whenever a trust is kept alive by heavy duties on foreign competing products—as is no doubt true in some cases—then is the time to ham-string the trust by cutting down the tariff. But there are modifying circumstances even here. If ham-stringing the trust at the same time knocks out a large number of independent industries in the same line, as it would in some departments, it is first to be determined whether ham-stringing wouldn't do more harm than good. Letting France and Germany and Switzerland deluge our states with watches made on 50-cent a day labor might give our railroad men a cheaper watch, but it would also give us a lot of cheap artisans. "It fares the land, to hasten ill a prey, where wealth accumulates and men decay," says Goldsmith. But the decay of men is more to be feared than the accumulation of wealth. There are some things which have to be endured for the sake of some other things. The watch company is about as innocuous, not to say beneficial, an industrial concern as there is in the country. Its labor is of a high grade; its product is redolent with advanced civilization; and it is a pride to the nation. And if you cannot afford a Waltham watch, why there is always the Waterbury or the Ingersoll.

BUMPED GOOD AND HARD.

Massachusetts Republican Tariff Revisionists Given the "Twenty-Three" Brand.

Some of the Massachusetts congressmen have been thrown down so hard that they can feel the bumps. They are not on the head. These heavy statesmen stuck to their determination to have a paper circulated for the calling of a Republican caucus of congressmen to decide what might be done about revising the tariff. They got only nine signatures outside of the Massachusetts delegation, says the Worcester Telegram, and they died in the heat of their race for the cup of nonsense. Now they know they will all be defeated at the next election, and they realize that no set of men from Massachusetts ever deserved so quick execution at the polls. They have worn fine hide plasters on their backs ever since they went to Washington and took their places as cyphers at the right hand of the real Republican figures. They did not have the courage to take the plasters off. They were stuck on with Boston glue and dried with the Whitney east wind. They were repeatedly told by Republicans from other parts of the country that the people will not submit to a revision of the tariff, but they would not believe, and said they would lose their jobs. Their jobs have lost them. They are wandering around Washington, caustic and forlorn. Massachusetts stays in the union and in prosperity without them. There are some things of which it has no time to be proud. There will be no free hides, but the congressmen can hide as often as they like without being missed. They have been skiddooed.

POLITICAL PICKINGS.

The gold standard vindicates itself wherever it is given a fair trial. UNSANITARY

Conditions in Packing Houses are Detailed.

BY AN ATTORNEY.

Horrors of Packingtown are Shown Up in a Vivid Manner—Germs of Disease Grow Strong.

New York.—The first light on the exact tenor of the Neill-Reynolds report, impatiently awaited by congress and every meat eater of this country and a great part of Europe, is given by a report given to the public Thursday by Thomas H. McKee, the attorney sent to Chicago to visit the places in Packingtown depicted in Upton Sinclair's novel "The Jungle."

McKee was sent to Chicago by the publishers of the novel, and it was contingent upon his report whether the book should appear. The report which he made to the publishers has been approved in its essential features by Commissioners Neill and Reynolds. The McKee report is replete with revolting details. The attorney says that pigs afflicted with cholera and tuberculosis were chopped up for lard; that the conditions which existed in the departments for sausage making were anything but sanitary, while those in the canning rooms were disgustingly dirty; that the stock yards are overrun with rats; that the men in the packing houses have a deadly pallor, and that there is an entire disregard of sanitation and ordinary cleanliness. McKee's report says: "At the plant I saw six hogs hung in line which had been condemned. A truck loaded with chopped up condemned hogs was in my presence. I followed it. It was placed in one of the tanks from which lard comes. Of the six condemned hogs, two were afflicted with cholera, the skin being as red as blood and the legs scabbed. Three were marked tubercular. The sixth had an ulcer on its side."

"I then looked over the sausage-making department, which lacked very much of being in a sanitary condition. On the men were none of the white caps and aprons shown in the packers' pictures. The department where beef is cooked for canning is extremely dirty. The walls, pillars and ceilings are dingy with accumulated splatters of years. It is a region where germ kingdoms wax strong from generation to generation."

Washington, D. C. — Representative Crumpacker, of Indiana, introduced a bill Thursday as a substitute for the Beveridge meat inspection amendment placed on the agricultural bill in the senate. The bill defines the authority which may be vested in the secretary of agriculture and limits the authority so as not to conflict with the police powers of the state. In accomplishing the adequate inspection with this restriction, provision is made whereby the secretary of agriculture may accept the inspection of state inspectors as to the sanitary condition of packing houses.

Where opposition is made on the part of the packers, which would make the state inspection inadequate, the secretary of agriculture is authorized to stop all meat products at state lines and make a thorough inspection. When the state inspection is accepted by the secretary this federal inspection in transit will not be made. Certain labels to denote the character of the state inspection are provided for use.

Edward Cudahy, of the Cudahy Packing Co., of Omaha, Neb., has written the Nebraska delegation in congress protesting against the Beveridge amendment. He objects to the provision compelling the packers to pay for the inspection and complains that the bill is too drastic in every particular.

England Is Aroused.

London.—"Tinned horrors" is the headline of one evening editorial upon the American beef scandals, which have caused the greatest amazement here. The matter is of the greatest interest, as the present government recently reversed the regulation forbidding the purchase of foreign meat for the army and navy contracts. "It is to be profoundly hoped," says the Sun, "that the great powers wielded by the American trusts will not prevail in the present instance." Inquiries at the war office point to the likelihood that no further food contracts will be given to America except under special supervision.

Will Introduce More Drastic Measure.

Washington.—Senator Beveridge, author of the meat inspection bill which was added as a rider to the agricultural appropriation bill by the senate, in an interview announced that if the house knocks out the senate amendment he will introduce a far more drastic measure. Beveridge says he will support it by a speech in which he will reveal all the facts concerning the packing business in the government's hands.

IN CONSTANT AGONY.

A West Virginian's Awful Distress Through Kidney Troubles.

W. L. Jackson, merchant, of Parkersburg, W. Va., says: "Driving about in bad weather brought kidney troubles on me, and I suffered twenty years with sharp, cramping pains in the back and urinary disorders. I often had to get up a dozen times at night to urinate. Retention set in, and I was obliged to use the catheter. I took to my bed, and the doctors failing to help, began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The urine soon came freely again, and the pain gradually disappeared. I have been cured eight years, and though over 70, am as active as a boy."

TORTURED WITH ECZEMA.

Tremendous Itching Over Whole Body—Scratched Until Bled—Wonderful Cure by Cuticura.

"Last year I suffered with a tremendous itching on my back, which grew worse, until it spread over the whole body, and only my face and hands were free. For four months or so I suffered torments, and I had to scratch, scratch, scratch, until I bled. At night when I went to bed things got worse, and I had at times to get up and scratch my body all over until I was as sore as could be, and until I suffered excruciating pains. They told me that I was suffering from eczema. Then I made up my mind that I would use the Cuticura Remedies. I used them according to instructions, and very soon indeed I was greatly relieved. I continued until well, and now I am ready to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one. Mrs. Mary Metzger, Sweetwater, Okla., June 28, 1905."

ALMOST A CATASTROPHE.

Exuberance of Love Spasmodically Manifested Results in Mortification.

She was seated in the gloaming, a happy smile on her pretty, pensive face, when her elderly aunt entered. Then, as she looked upon the kind old face, a feeling rushed upon her that she must share her wonderful news with somebody—she must let someone into the secret which till then had been the sole possession of herself and Harold. She sprang up and flung her arms about her aunt's neck.

"Oh, auntie," she cried impulsively, "you do love me, don't you? Kiss me, auntie, and tell me you do—kiss me!" But only an alarming gurgle came from the old lady for a moment. Then she said, gasping indignantly: "Kiss you, if you ain't careful I'll shake the life out of you. You very nearly made me swallow my teeth!"

He Didn't Rise.

"Indeed," the lecturer went on in a quizzical way, "I believe I am justified in asserting that nine women out of 10 practically propose to the men they become engaged to. As a test, I would ask all married men in the audience whose wives virtually popped the question to them to arise."

There was a subdued rustle in the auditorium, and in the dense silence that ensued could be heard sibilant feminine whispers in concert, "Just you dare to stand up."—Judge.

LIFE ENDED.

Congressman Adams, of Pennsylvania, Suicides.

BECAUSE OF DEBT.

He Had Been in Congress for Many Years and Had Made an Envious Record.

Washington, D. C.—Representative Robert Adams, of Philadelphia, died at the Emergency hospital Friday at 11:30 a. m. from the effects of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Mr. Adams was discovered in a dying condition in his apartments at the Metropolitan club shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning. He was sitting in a chair. A bullet wound in his mouth and a pistol lying near him made it clear that he had attempted to kill himself.

A letter received by Speaker Cannon from Mr. Adams explained the cause of the suicide. Mr. Adams said in the letter that his debts exceeded his resources and forced him to abandon his official position. While he did not indicate an intention to take his life, he spoke of the form of his burial, indicating that he had then made up his mind to commit the rash act.

Robert Adams was one of the most popular representatives in congress and he has been identified with many matters of world-wide importance. His position as ranking member of the majority after the chairman on the house committee on foreign affairs has, owing to the ill health of Mr. Hitt, made it necessary for him to largely direct the business of that committee.

It was only Thursday that he, as acting chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs, managed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill to its final passage in the house.

Mr. Adams has always been a republican of the stalwart type. He was born in Philadelphia, February 26, 1849, and graduated at the University of Pennsylvania 20 years later. He practiced law for five years and spent some time in scientific explorations as a member of the United States geological survey. In 1883 he began his political career as a member of the state senate, where he served four years and in 1889 entered the diplomatic service as American minister to Brazil. He filled this post for a little over one year and then came back to this country to re-enter politics, being elected a member of the Fifty-third congress, in which body he has served continuously ever since.

It was Mr. Adams who reported, conducted through the house and had charge of in conference with the senate, the Cuban resolutions, and drafted, introduced, reported and passed through the house of representatives in one hour the declaration of war against Spain.

BUSINESS BULLETIN.

Wholesome Progress Is the Rule and Little Idle Machinery Is Reported.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Business maintains wholesome progress and mercantile collections improve. The week's aggregate transactions show the effect of the holiday and seasonable quiet in certain lines, but a good gain is noted in comparison with the corresponding period of any previous year. In many jobbing lines there is no prospect of vigorous activity until fall, but wholesale distribution is now heavy and retail business is only retarded at points where temporary weather conditions are adverse. Little idle machinery is reported at manufacturing plants, except in a few cases of labor disputes and several substantial increases in wages became effective on June 1.

Failures this week numbered 174 in the United States, against 198 last year, and 13 in Canada, compared with 29 a year ago.

Josephine Terranova Acquitted.

New York.—Josephine Terranova was acquitted Friday of the murder of her aunt, Concetti Riggo. She was, however, not released, being remanded to the Tombs to answer to the charge of murdering her uncle, who was killed at the same time as his wife. Assistant District Attorney Ely, who has conducted the prosecution, was unable to say definitely whether or not the second charge would be prosecuted. The jury returned their verdict within 16 minutes after the court's charge, agreeing on the innocence of the defendant without discussion.

Congress.

Washington.—On the 1st the senate passed the bill regulating and extending the liability of railroad companies for injury to employees. When the death of Representative Adams, of Pennsylvania, was announced in the house an immediate adjournment was taken.

Patterson Wins.

Nashville, Tenn.—Malcolm R. Patterson, of Memphis, representative in congress from the Tenth district, last night was nominated for governor by the state democratic convention. The nomination came after four days of a stormy gathering and after a bitter contest between Patterson and Gov. Cox, incumbent.

OCEANS OF SMALL CHANGE

Nickels Paid Into New York Street Car Companies Reach an Enormous Total.

It is probable that all the five-cent pieces now in existence would not have more than paid the cash fares collected on the New York City Railway company lines alone. According to the report of the state railroad commission, the number of cash fares paid in 1905 in New York reached the enormous total of 1,171,151,698. At five cents each that amounts to $58,557,584.90. In the period from 1793 to the close of 1904 the total value of the five-cent pieces coined in this country amounted to only $24,175,788.15. If all the three-cent pieces and two-cent pieces and the cents and half-cents were added it would still leave a total in money far less than that represented by the collection of cash fares in New York. With a reasonable allowance for the number of coins that must have been lost and destroyed in one way or another since our mint was opened, it is probable that the total amount of change now in this country, including all coins between a dollar and three cents, would not ex-

THE JERUSALEM ARTICHOKE

Peculiar Qualities of a Tuber That Grows on the Roots of the Sunflower.

Most young folks in the country are familiar with the sweet, crisp, juicy tubers known as artichokes. These, says an article on "Nature and Science," in St. Nicholas, grow on the roots of the sunflower known to botanists as Helianthus tuberosus, and are commonly called Jerusalem artichokes. Under this common name you will find the tubers offered for sale in most seed catalogues.

The plants are easily grown in almost any kind of soil. At first glance the tubers have somewhat the appearance of potatoes, but unlike them they may be eaten raw like radishes, or they may be pickled or cooked. Recipes are to be found in all cook books.

These artichokes are entirely different (yet not far distant in a botanical way) from the globe artichokes which are grown in California, and perhaps elsewhere exclusively for their edible flower buds. These are never eaten raw. Even when cooked they are rather tasteless. Personally, I think

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

Railroad officials have been experimenting with a new railroad car. It is specially designed for climbing grades. The first trial run developed good climbing ability over stiff grades and a speed of 40 miles an hour with ease. The vibration and noise of the engine were largely eliminated, and the mechanism of the car worked splendidly. Railroad officials believe this car the most perfect one of its kind in existence.

French Writer's Discovery.

Zola, in his youth, before fame came to him, wrote some stories about millionaires, wherein it seemed to him that he exaggerated shamefully in his descriptions of the costly homes and habits of the rich. But later on, when Zola became a friend of millionaires, he found that his accounts of their extravagance had fallen far short of the truth.

"Sabots" in Use.

Wooden shoes are clattering into use in America, chiefly among our adopted citizens. A few years ago there was supposed to be only one maker of sabots in New York city. Now there are known to be several manufacturers in New York and other cities. Indeed, the industry has grown in Michigan to be a lusty infant.

APACHES SUN WORSHIPERS.

The Apaches, like many other North American tribes, are sun-worshippers. Their myths tell them that the sun is the all-powerful deity and to it all supplications are addressed. On going into battle, planting corn, or on starting on a cattle-stealing expedition, the sun is asked to look with favor. That they believe in a future world, writes E. S. Curtis, in Scribner's, is proved by their custom of killing horses and burying them, as well as their clothing and implements of the chase, for life in the future world. Not only the medicine men but the people claim to hold communion with the Chindi or spirits of their ancestors. They are also great believers in omens, talismans and amulets, but are very conservative and it is with difficulty that one gets them to discuss things supernatural. They will not talk about God among their people with familiarity, and scarcely at all with the white man.

FREE FIGHTS

Were Plenty and Pandemonium Reigned.

CALLED IN POLICE.

The Democratic State Convention at Nashville, Tenn., Was a Rough and Tumble Affair.

Nashville, Tenn.—The state democratic convention which met here on Tuesday to nominate candidates for governor and railroad commissioners adjourned at 6:10 last evening until this morning without effecting even a temporary organization. It was decidedly the most turbulent body of the kind that ever assembled in Tennessee. Pandemonium and free fights followed by police intervention were the rule, and it was with the utmost difficulty that any sort of record of the proceedings could be made.

An adjournment came after an understanding had been reached between the leaders of the opposing factions that the three gubernatorial candidates, Gov. John I. Cox, Congressman Malcolm H. Patterson and Judge John R. Bond, should each name four representatives on a committee to decide on a temporary chairman.

The services of the police were necessary from the outset. Chairman Abernathy, of the state committee, called the convention to order at noon. There was confusion at once, and when the call of counties for nominations for temporary chairman began the uproar steadily increased. When Davidson county was reached a battle royal was on, the wildest excitement prevailing. The county was finally passed, the contest going to the committee on credentials yet to be named and slowly the roll call proceeded, every move marking a fresh contest.

Once the chairman laid down the gavel and advanced to the front of the platform to make himself heard. When he turned around Luke Lea, of Davidson county, a Patterson supporter, had the gavel and was essaying to act as presiding officer. Abernathy protested. Lea was obdurate, and from then on there were two presiding officers and pandemonium on the floor. At length a council of war between the leaders brought about a temporary truce and adjournment followed.

Nashville, Tenn.—The democratic state convention was harmonious Wednesday. The credentials committee sat until late last night without completing its work of considering the various contests. The convention effected its temporary organization in the morning, James C. Bradford, of Nashville, being selected as presiding officer. After temporary organization the convention adjourned until 3 p. m., when it reconvened, heard a few speeches and took a recess.

THE LAW'S DELAYS.

Gov. Higgins, of New York, Says that in the Case of Lawyer Patrick They Have Been Scandalous.

Albany, N. Y.—"Little less than scandalous," is the phrase used by Gov. Higgins in a veto memorandum issued last night regarding "The law's delays" in the case of Albert T. Patrick, convicted of the murder of the aged millionaire, William M. Rice, in New York City, in 1900. The governor's veto is of two bills introduced by Assemblyman Wade, of Chautauqua, to amend the code of criminal procedure so as to permit an appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial in a criminal case on the ground of newly discovered evidence. The bills, which were introduced in the senate also, by Senator Smith, were generally understood to have reference principally to the Patrick case and the governor so describes them in his memorandum.

"Waiving the objection to the bills," says Gov. Higgins, "that, though general in form, they are special in their application, and are intended to grant a right of appeal to Albert T. Patrick to obtain a review of an order, if such order be made, denying his pending motion for a new trial on newly discovered evidence, I disapprove them for the reason that they introduce a new procedure to our criminal law and tend to defer indefinitely the termination of a capital case."

Recorder Goff, before whom Patrick was originally tried, has now under consideration a motion for a new trial for Patrick, and Gov. Higgins has reprimanded the condemned lawyer for a third time until June 18.

Congress.

Washington.—In the senate on the 25th the postoffice appropriation bill was passed. The senate then adjourned until the 31st. The house spent the day in consideration of the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill and adjourned until the 31st.

Enthusiasm sets the pace but common sense wins in a walk.

You cannot induce a lower animal to eat heartily when not feeling well. A sick dog starves himself and get well. The stomach once overworked, must have rest the same as your feet or eyes. You don't have to starve to rest your stomach. KODOL FOR DYSPEPSIA takes up the work for your stomach, digests what you eat and gives it a rest. Puts it back in condition again. You can't feel good with a disordered stomach. Try Kodol. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Fair weather friends are the only ones that come in bunches.

There is no need worrying along in discomfort because of a disordered digestion. Get a bottle of KODOL FOR DYSPEPSIA, and see what it will do for you. Kodol not only digests what you eat and gives that tired stomach a needed rest, but is a corrective of the greatest efficiency. Kodol relieves indigestion, dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, flatulence, and sour stomach. Kodol will make your stomach young and healthy again. You will worry just in the proportion that your stomach worries you. Worry means the loss of ability to do your best. Worry is to be avoided at all times. Kodol will take the worry out of your stomach. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

The Story of an Invention.

The power loom was the invention of a farmer's boy, who had never seen or heard of such a thing. He fashioned one with his penknife, and when he got it all done he showed it with great enthusiasm to his father, who at once kicked it all to pieces, saying he would have no boy about him who would spend his time on such foolish things. The boy was sent to a blacksmith to learn a trade, and his master took a lively interest in him. He made a loom of what was left of the one his father had broken up and showed it to his master. The blacksmith saw he had no common boy as an apprentice, and that the invention was a valuable one. He had a loom constructed under the supervision of the boy. It worked to their perfect satisfaction, and the blacksmith furnished the means to manufacture the looms, and the boy received half the profits. In about a year the blacksmith wrote to the boy's father that he should bring with him a wealthy gentleman, who was the inventor of the celebrated power loom. You may be able to judge of the astonishment at the old home when his son was presented to him as the inventor, who told him that the loom was the same as the model that he had kicked to pieces the previous year.

The Pointer.

There is as much fallacy in attempting to prove the origin of pointing as in a like attempt to prove the origin of wagging. As a matter of fact, the pointing act commonly exhibited by the pointer and setter is an incident of the capture or attempted capture of food by dogs, and also by wolves and foxes. Coyotes have been seen to draw and point on prairie dogs and grouse in precisely the same manner that the pointer and setter draw on game birds. There were the same rigidity and stealth, the pause to judge of distance and opportunity and the final rigid pause when all the energies are concentrated for the final spring to capture. All the phenomena displayed by the dog family indicate that the drawing and pointing in the pursuit of prey were ever natural traits. It may be reasonably believed that man could not breed the pointing instinct out of the dog if he attempted to do so.—Forest and Stream.

A Gentle Wish.

It was their honeymoon. They had moved into a pretty suburban house and were getting settled cozily at last. "I have something for you," she said when he came home from the office. "A present?" "Yes. You have no night key, so I had one made for you. Here it is." "That was very thoughtful of you. But how did you come to take so much trouble?" "I wanted it as a kind of barometer. You'll let me look at it now and then, won't you?" "Certainly." "I'm not going to say you mustn't go out evenings, and I'm not going to sit up until you come home when you are out late. I only hope," she said coaxingly, "that every time I look at it the key will be a little bit rustier, and then I will know that home pleases you more than any other place."

The Fountain Pen.

The fountain pen is not an invention of recent years. In Samuel Taylor's "Universal System of Shorthand Writing," published in 1786, we find proof of the fountain pen's great age. "I have nothing more to add," wrote Samuel Taylor, "for the use or instruction of the practitioner, except a few words concerning the kind of pen proper to be used for writing shorthand. For expeditious writing some use what are called fountain pens, into which your ink is put, which gradually flows when writing, from thence into a smaller pen cut short to fit the smaller end of this instrument, but it is a hard matter to meet with a good one of this kind."

The Fork.

It is about 1,900 years ago since the fork made its appearance in Europe. In 99 A. D. a son of the doge Pietro Orsola had wedded in Venice the Brizantine Princess Argila, who produced at the wedding breakfast a silver fork and gold spoon. Then the high Venetian families followed suit, and these martyrs to fashion pricked their lips with the new instrument. The fork prospered, however, and spread over Italy. In 1370 it had traveled as far as France, and in 1608 a traveler brought it direct to England.

Both Hate Him.

"Funny thing," remarked Wilson musingly. "Tom Wilkins and Edith Brown used to be great friends of mine. I introduced them to each other. They got married, and now neither of them will speak to me. Wonder what the reason can be?"

Cross Purposes.

Mrs. Klubbs (severely)—I've been lying awake these three hours waiting for you to come home. Mr. Klubbs (ruefully)—Gee! And I've been staying away for three hours waiting for you to go to sleep.

A Lady Beautiful.

Tramp—Kin you give a poor feller a cold bite, mum? Housewife—Yes. On your way out you'll find some leicles on the gate.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Clever Ones.

Griggs—Some men are born great, others achieve greatness. Briggs—Yes; and others simply have the trick of making other people think they're great.

I have lived to know that the great secret of human happiness is this: Never suffer your energies to stagnate.—Adam Clark.

CATARRH FROM CHILDHOOD.

Cured by Hyomei, the Only Medicine for Catarrh That L. Taggart is Willing to Guarantee.

The popularity and growth of Hyomei are unique in the annals of medicine. The demand for the Hyomei outfit and the extra bottles in Emporium has been something phenomenal, and L. Taggart says that he has never sold any other remedy which gave such universal satisfaction and made so many remarkable cures.

The fact that Hyomei cures catarrh in the only natural and sensible way, that is through breathing medicated air, not by taking drugs into the stomach, no doubt has helped in the introduction of the treatment. There is certainly no other remedy for catarrhal diseases that is so effectual as Hyomei and its discovery has realized in part Pasteur's prophecy. "We shall one day rid the world of all diseases that are caused by germs."

The worst and most chronic cases of catarrh readily yield to the use of Hyomei. People who have suffered from childhood have been cured by this remedy. J. S. Nugens, treasurer of the American Union Insurance Co., New York City, writes: "Hyomei has completely cured my daughter of catarrh, from which she had been suffering for years."

So many remarkable results have attended the use of Hyomei amongst the customers of L. Taggart, that he feels justified in using the strongest possible language in speaking of its virtues, and when you read that he sells it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure, you will see that he fully believes in its curative powers. A complete outfit costs only one dollar, extra bottles 50 cents.

Thunders of applause give no promise of showers of blessings.

Letter to T. B. Lloyd.

Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sir: Mr. H. H. Stephenson, Cashier of Oil City (Pa.) Savings Bank writes: "Nine years ago I painted my house with your paint. It wore so well, I want to use it again."

That's nothing wonderful except for the fact that the soft coal region of Pennsylvania is pretty hard on paint with its oil, smoke and grime. All we see in it is that Devco is good for nine years sometimes. There are thousands of people that know it, and millions that don't.

There's the rub! We advertise for the millions; we want to make paint for the millions.

Mr. Cashier, do you know that Devco lead-and-zinc is twice as cheap as lead-and-oil or mixed paints? Is 100 per cent a fair profit in your business?

Three-quarters of the people paint lead-and-oil mixed by hand; while the U. S. Government use lead, zinc and oil ground together by machinery—same as Devco lead-and-zinc. The majority never is right about anything.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVCO & Co.,
New York.

Miss Nina Bryan will be in charge.

Bow Legged Men.

Do not revile the bow legged man, for he plays an important part in the world. It is estimated that 40 per cent of mankind are bow legged, so numerically this class is entitled to great respect. Bow legs invariably accompany a robust physique. We find them one of the conspicuous features of athletes. Comedians are almost always bow legged. Of the bow legged geniuses to which humanity points with pride the most illustrious examples are Caesar, Horace, Napoleon, Wellington, Schopenhauer and Cavour, the celebrated Italian statesman.—London Answers.

The Bright Side.

Words of cheer are words of help; words of gloom are words of harm. There is a bright side and a dark side to every phase of life and to every hour of time. If we speak of the bright side, we bring the brightness into prominence; if we speak of the dark side, we deepen its shadows. It is in our power to help or to hinder by a word and every person with whom we come in contact.

The Very Best Remedy for Bowel Troubles.

Mr. M. F. Burroughs, an old and well-known resident of Bluffton, Ind., says: "I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as the very best remedy for bowel trouble. I make this statement after having used the remedy in my family for several years. I am never without it." This remedy is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? For sale by L. Taggart; J. E. Smith, Sterling Run; Crum Bros., Sinnamahoning.

You can't always tell what is in a man by trying to pump him.

Unknown Friends.

There are many people who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with splendid results, but who are unknown because they have hesitated about giving a testimonial of their experience for publication. These people however, are none the less friends of this remedy. They have done much toward making it a household word by their personal recommendations to friends and neighbors. It is a good medicine to have in the home and is widely known for its cures of diarrhoea and all forms of bowel trouble. For sale by L. Taggart; J. E. Smith, Sterling Run; Crum Bros., Sinnamahoning.

CHAPTER VI.—CONTINUED.

"I'll wager a dollar that Nan isn't doing that screaming. The Warburton's never cry out when they are frightened. Hang it!"—suddenly; "this street doesn't look familiar. I ought to have reached Scott Circle by this time. Ah, here's a broader street,"—going lickety-clip into Vermont.

A glass went jingling to the pavement.

"Oho! Nancy will be jumping out the next thing. This will never do." He began to draw in.

Hark! His trained trooper's ear heard other hoofs beating on the iron-like surface of the pavement. Worriedly he turned his head. Five blocks away there flashed under one of the arc-lights, only to disappear in the shadow again, two mounted policemen.

"By George! It looks as if the girls were going to have their fun too!" He laughed, but there was a nervous catch in his voice. He hadn't counted on any policeman taking part in the comedy. "Where the devil is Scott Circle, anyhow?"—fretfully. He tugged at the reins. "Best draw up at the next corner. I'll be hanged if I know where I am."

He braced himself, sawed the reins, and presently the frightened and somewhat wearied horses slowed down to a trot. This he finally brought to a walk. One more pull, and they came to a stand. It would be hard to say which breathed the heaviest, the man or the horses. Warburton leaped from the box, opened the door and waited. He recognized the necessity of finishing the play before the mounted police arrived on the scene.

There was a commotion inside the carriage, then a woman in a crimson cloak stepped (no, jumped!) out. Mr. Robert threw his arms around her and kissed her cheek.

"You . . . vile . . . wretch!" Warburton sprang back, his hands applied to his stinging face.

"You drunken wretch, how dare you!"

"Nan, it's only I—" he stammered.

"Nan!" exclaimed the young woman, as her companion joined her. The light from the corner disclosed the speaker's wrathful features, disdainful lips, palpitating nostrils, eyes darting terrible glances. "Nan! Do you think, ruffian, that you are driving serving maids?"

"Good Lord!" Warburton stepped back speechless, benumbed, terror-struck still farther; stepped back speechless, benumbed, terror-struck. The woman he was gazing at was anybody in the world but his sister Nancy!

CHAPTER VII.

A POLICE AFFAIR.

"Officers, arrest this fellow!" commanded the young woman. Her gesture was Didoesque in its wrath.

"That we will, ma'am!" cried one of the policemen, flinging himself from his horse. "So it's you, me gay buck? Thirty days for you, an' mebbe more. I didn't like yer looks from th' start. You're working some kind of a trick. What complaint, ma'am?"

"Drunkenness and abduction,"—rubbing the burning spot on her cheek.

"That'll be rather serious. Ye'll have to appear against him in th' mornin', ma'am."

"I certainly shall do so." She promptly gave her name, address and telephone number.

"Bill, you drive th' ladies home an' I'll see this bucko to th' station. Here, you!"—to Warburton, who was still dumb with astonishment at the extraordinary denouement to his innocent joke. "Git on that horse, an' lively, or, or, I'll rap ye with th' club."

"It's all a mistake, officer—"

"Close yer face and git on that horse. Ye can tell th' judge all that to th' mornin'." I ain't got no time to listen. Bill, report just as soon as ye see th' ladies home. Now, off with y'. Th' ladies'll be wanting somethin' to quiet their nerves. Git on that horse, an' frisky groom; hustle!" Warburton mechanically climbed into the saddle. It never occurred to him to parley, to say that he couldn't ride a horse. The inventive cells of his usually fertile brain lay passive. "Now," went on the officer, mounting his own nag, "will ye go quietly? If ye don't I'll plug ye in th' leg with a chunk o' lead. I won't stan' no nonsense."

"What are you going to do with me?" asked Warburton, with a desperate effort to collect his energies.

"Lock ye up; mebbe throw a pall of water on that overheated cocoon of yours."

"But if you'll only let me explain to you! It's all a joke; I got the wrong carriage—"

"Marines, marines! D' ye think I was born yestiddy? Ye wanted th' ladies' sparklers, or I'm a doughhead." The police are the same all over the world; the original idea sticks to them, and truth in voice or presence is but a sign of deeper cunning and villainy. "Anyhow, ye can't turn around Washington like ye do in England, me cockney. Ye can't drive more'n a hundred miles an hour on these pavements."

"But, I tell you—" Warburton, realizing where his escape was about to lead him, grew desperate. The ignominy of it! He would be the laughing-stock of the town on the morrow. The papers would teem with it. "You'll find that you are making a great mistake. If you will only take me to—Scott Circle—"

"Where ye have a pal with a gun, eh? Git ahead!" and the two made off toward the west.

Once or twice the officer found himself admiring the easy seat of his prisoner; and if the horse had been anything but a trained animal, he would have worried some regarding the ultimate arrival at the third precinct.

Half a dozen times Warburton was of a mind to make a bolt for it, but he did not dare trust the horse or his knowledge of the streets. He had already two counts against him, disorderly conduct and abduction, and he had no desire to add uselessly, a third, that of resisting an officer, which seems the greatest possible crime a man can commit and escape hanging. Oh, for a mettlesome nag! There would be no police-station for him, then. Police-station! Heavens, what should he do? His brother, his sister; their dismay, their shame; not counting that he himself would be laughed at from one end of the continent to the other. What an ass he had made of himself! He wondered how much money it would take to clear himself and at the same moment recollected that he hadn't a cent in his clothes.

A sweat of terror moistened his brow. "What are ye up to, anyway?" asked the policeman. "What kind of booze have ye been samplin'?"

"I've nothing to say."

"Ye speak clear enough. So much th' worse, if ye ain't drunk. Was ye crazy 'r ridin' like that? Ye might have killed th' women an' had a bill of manslaughter brought against ye."

"I have nothing to say; it is all a mistake. I got the wrong number and the wrong carriage."

"Th' devil ye did. An' where was ye goin' to drive th' other carriage at that thunderin' rate? It won't wash. His honor'll be stone-deaf when ye tell him that. You're drunk or have been."

"Not to-night."

"Well, I'd give me night off t' know what ye were up to. Don't ye know nothin' about ordinances an' laws? An' I wouldn't mind havin' ye tell me why ye threw yer arms around th' lady an' kissed her,"—shrewdly.

Warburton started in his saddle. He had forgotten all about that part of the episode. His blood warmed suddenly and his cheeks burned. He had kissed her, kissed her soundly, too, the most radiantly beautiful woman in the world. Why, come to think of it, it was easily worth a night in jail. Yes, by George, he had kissed her, kissed that blooming cheek, and but for this policeman, would have forgotten! Whatever happened to him, she wouldn't forget in a hurry. He laughed. The policeman gazed at him in pained surprise.

"Well, ye seem t' take it good and hearty."

"If you could only see the humor in it, my friend, you'd laugh, too."

"Oh, I would, hey? All I got t' say is that yer nerve gits me. An' ye stand a pretty good show of bein' rounded up for more'n 30 days, too. Well, ye've had yer joke; mebbe ye have th' price t' pay th' fiddler. Turn here."

The rest of the ride was in silence, Warburton gazing cautiously ahead and the officer watching him with a wary eye to observe any suggestive movement. He couldn't make out this chap. There was something wrong, some deep-dyed villainy—of this he hadn't the slightest doubt. It was them high-toned swells that was the craftiest an' most daring. Handsome is that handsome doing. A quarter of an hour later they arrived at the third precinct, where our jehu was registered for the night under the name of James Osborne. He was hustled into a small cell and left to himself.

He had kissed her! Glory of glories! He had pressed her to his very heart, besides. After all, they couldn't do anything serious to him. They could not prove the charge of abduction. He stretched himself on the cot, smiled, arranged his legs comfortably, wondered what she was thinking of at this moment, and fell asleep. It was a sign of a good constitution and a decently white conscience. And thus they found him in the morning. They touched his arm, and he awoke with a smile, the truest indication of a man's amiability. At first he was puzzled as he looked blinking from his jailers to his surroundings and then back at his jailers. Then it all returned to him, and he laughed. Now the law, as represented and upheld by petty officers, possesses a dignity that is instantly ruffled by the sound of laughter from a prisoner; and Mr. Robert was roughly told to shut up, and that he'd soon laugh on the other side of his mouth.

"All right officers, all right; only make allowances for a man who sees the funny side of things." Warburton stood up and shook himself, and picked up his white hat. They eyed him intelligently. In the morning light the young fellow didn't appear to be such a rascal. It was plainly evident that he had not been drunk the preceding night; for his eyes were not shot with red veins nor did his lips lack their usual healthy moisture. The officer who had taken him in charge, being a shrewd and trained observer, noted the white hands, soft and well-kept. He shook his head.

"Look here, me lad, you're no groom, not by several years. Now, what th' devil was ye up to, anyway?"

"I'm not saying a word, sir," smiled Warburton. "All I want to know is, am I to have any breakfast? I shouldn't mind some peaches and cream or grapes to start with, and a small steak and coffee."

"Ye wouldn't mind, hey?" mimicked the officer. "What d'ye think this place is, th' Metropolitan club? Ye'll have yer bacon an' coffee, an' be glad t' git it. They'll feed ye in the mess-room. Come along."

Warburton took his time over the coffee and bacon. He wanted to think out a reasonable defense without unmasking himself. He was thinking how he could get word to me, too. The "duffer" might prove a friend in need.

"Now where?" asked Warburton, wiping his mouth.

"T' th' court. It'll go hard with ye if ye're handed over t' th' grand jury on th' charge of abduction. Ye'd better make a clean breast of it. I'll speak a word for yer behavior."

"Aren't you a little curious?"

"It's a part of me business,"—gruffly.

"I'll have my say to the judge," said Warburton.

"That's yer own affair. Come." Once outside, Warburton lost color and a large part of his nonchalance; for an open patrol stood at the curb.

"Have I got to ride in that?"—disgustedly.

"As true as life; an' if ye make any disturbance, so much th' worse."

Warburton climbed in, his face red with shame and anger. He tied his handkerchief around his chin and tilted his hat far down over his eyes.

"Erad of meetin' some of yer swell friends, hey? Ten t' one, yer a swell an' was runnin' away with th' wrong woman. Mind, I have an eye on ye."

The patrol rumbled over the asphalt on the way down-town. Warburton buried his face in his hands. Several times they passed a cigar-store, and his mouth watered for a good cigar, the taste of a clear Havana.

He entered the police-court, not lacking in curiosity. It was his first experience with this arm of the civil law. He wasn't sure that he liked it. It wasn't an inviting place with its bare benches and its motley, tawdry throng. He was plumped into a seat between some ladies of irregular habits, and the stale odor of intoxicants, mingling with cheap perfumery, took away the edge of his curiosity.

"Hello, pretty boy; jag?" asked one of these faded beauties, in an undertone. She nudged him with her elbow.

"No sweetheart," he replied, smiling in spite of himself.

"Ah gowan! Been pinching some one's wad?"

"Nope!"

"What are you here for, then?"

"Having a good time without anybody's consent. If you will listen, you will soon hear all about it."

"Silence there, on the bench!" bawled the clerk, whacking the desk.

"Say, Marie," whispered the woman to her nearest neighbor. "Here's a boy been selling his master's harness and got pinched."

"But look at the sweet things coming in, will you! Ain't they swell, though?" whispered Marie, nodding a skinny, feather toward the door.

Warburton glanced indifferently in the direction indicated, and received a shock. Two women—and both were very heavy black veils. The smaller of the two inclined her body, and he was sure that her scrutiny was for him. He saw her say something into the ear of the companion, and repeat it to one of the court lawyers. The lawyer approached the desk, and in his turn whispered a few words into the judge's ear. The magistrate nodded. Warburton was conscious of a blush of shame. This was a nice position for any respectable woman to see him in!

"James Osborne!" called the clerk.

An officer beckoned to James, and he made his way to the prisoner's box. His honor looked him over coldly.

"Name?"

"James Osborne."

"Born here?"

"No."

"Say 'sir.'"

"No, sir."

"Where were you born?"

"In New York State."

"How old are you? And don't forget to say 'sir' when you reply to my questions."

"I am 28, sir."

"Married?"

"No, sir."

"How long have you been engaged as a groom?"

"Not very long, sir."

"How long?"

"Less than 24 hours, sir."

Surprise rippled over the faces of the audience on the benches.

"Humph! You are charged with disorderly conduct, reckless driving, and attempted abduction. The last charge has been withdrawn, fortunately for you, sir. Have you ever been up before

"Up, sir?"
"A prisoner in a police-court."
"No, sir."
"Twenty-five for reckless driving and ten for disorderly conduct; or 30 days."
"Your Honor, the horses ran away."
"Yes, urged by your whip."
"I was not disorderly, sir."
"The officer declares that you had been drinking."
"Your Honor, I got the wrong carriage. My number was 17 and I answered to 71." He wondered if she would believe this statement.
"I suppose that fully explains why you made a race-track of one of our main thoroughfares?"—sarcastically. "You were on the wrong carriage to begin with."

CALLED FOR PEN AND INK.

"All I can say, sir, is that it was a mistake."

"The mistake came in when you left your carriage to get a drink. You broke the law right then. Well, if a man makes mistakes, he must pay for them, here or elsewhere. This mistake will cost you $35."

"I haven't a penny in my clothes, sir."

"Officer, lock him up, and keep him locked up till the fine is paid. I can not see my way to remit it. Not another word,"—as Warburton started to protest.

"Marie Johnson, Mabel Tyner, Belle Lisle!" cried the clerk.

The two veiled ladies left the court precipitately.

James, having been ushered into a cell, hurriedly called for pen and ink and paper. At half after ten that morning the following note reached me:

"Dear Chuck: Am in a devil of a scrape at the police court. Tried to play a joke on the girls last night by dressing up in the groom's clothes. Got the wrong outfit, and was arrested. Bring $35 and a suit of clothes the quickest ever. And, for mercy's sake, say nothing to any one, least of all the folks. I have given the name of James Osborne. Now, hustle. Bob." I hustled.

Why Women Are Pretty.

According to an English specialist who has made a careful study of the subject the reason why women are better looking than men is because they are more indolent and are not called upon to use their brains as much as men are. Hard intellectual work and assiduous attention to business, he says, are harmful so far as physical beauty is concerned. As proof that his theory is correct he points to the Zeros, whose home is in British India. Among them women hold the place which in other countries is occupied by men. The Zero woman manages the affairs of state, goes into business on her own account, and does not wait for a proposal of marriage, but proposes herself; whereas the Zero man has nothing to do but cook the meals and look after his children. The natural result, says the scientist, is that the men of his singular tribe are very pretty and the woman are unusually plain.

The Roar Was Inaudible.

Travelers from the United States, after a visit to England and the Continent, are usually willing to acknowledge that there is a shrill quality in the voices of American women. The New York Tribune tells of a party of tourists who were on their way to visit a famous waterfall, when the power of American vocal organs was well illustrated.

"We are nearly there now," the guide said at last, and with revived spirits the tourists pressed on.

"How much farther, guide?" asked, a little later, a young man whose boots were tight.

"Only a short distance, sir," was the answer. "As soon as the ladies stop talking you will hear the roar."

He Carved the Roast.

The wife of an army officer gave a dinner at Manila while her husband was soldiering in the Philippines. Her guests were most distinguished army officers, so she set the table herself, laying the covers for six, and then proceeded to the kitchen to give last instructions to her new Jap cook.

"Do you think that you could carve this nicely?" she asked, indicating the roast, which was about done.

"Oh, yes," said the Jap.

"Very well then. I guess you'd better do it before it is brought on the table."

"And what what do you think," she related afterward, "when the next course arrived there was my beautiful roast cut up in six big chunks—one for each of us."—Kansas City Journal.

Love's Young Dream.

They sat on the old porch and watched the red moon climbing above the trees.
"Love," whispered the sentimental girl, "makes the world go round."
"Yes, darling," whispered the ardent suitor, "but, best of all, it makes the arm go round."
And even the frogs croaked their approval from the chilly swamps.—Chicago Daily News.

Spanking Might Do Good.

The old-fashioned woman said little and spanked much; the woman of the present time says much and spans little. When we remember the spankings we got when we were little we think to-day's woman is the better, but when we see how noisy to-day's children are we wish we could have more of the old-fashioned woman around.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

As It Impressed Him.

YOUNG WIDOW WILL FIGHT FOR MILLIONS OF HER FATHER-IN-LAW

Disposition of Estate of Samuel S. Brown, Pittsburg Magnate, Reveals Scandal.

LEFT MUCH MONEY TO HIS LATEST PET

Girl at the Last Supplanted Wife of Dead Son in the Old Man's Affections—Will Was Made as He Lay on His Death Bed.

"Better an old man's darling than a young man's slave," runs the old song.

Probably Martha E. Lewis will concur, but Mrs. Grace McGoodwin Brown, daughter-in-law of the late Samuel S. Brown, Smoky City magnate and multi-millionaire, can hardly be expected to.

Idolized and petted by her father-in-law for 15 years, taught to consider herself his heiress, and introduced everywhere as his daughter, she finds herself left a paltry $30,000, while her supplanter, Martha E. Lewis, has been given a sum exceeding $250,000.

And a contest in the courts which will enrich lawyers and furnish sensations to satisfy the most scandal-hungry dame is promised.

For Mrs. Brown and all the relatives of the dead millionaire assert that his latest will, executed on his death bed, was made under undue influence and is unjust and unfair.

Worth Over $20,000,000.

Samuel S. Brown died last December. He left an estate scattered all the way between Pittsburg, New York and New Orleans which is conservatively estimated at $20,000,000. He also left a will which is the bone of contention.

Mrs. Brown, young widow of the dead magnate's only son, had been told that she was to be his beneficiary. A goodly portion of the estate was to have been hers. Yet, when the will was read, she found herself cut off with a paltry batch of brewery bonds, and these to go should she remarry.

But Miss Lewis, bitter enemy of the millionaire's daughter-in-law, benefited to the extent of a quarter of a million and more. She had already supplanted the beautiful Kentucky belle as the head of the old man's household before his death. That was the last straw; then came the open breach.

It is a strange story—how these two young women came into the life of the millionaire. There were a son and a daughter whom the old man

Pittsburg, Pa. William Brown, Princeton, Ky. Wait. I am coming down that way this week.

For an answer this came back: Can't wait. WILL.

And this was the reply:

All right. Go ahead. God bless you both. Bring her home. FATHER.

But it was not so fated. Will Brown, undisputed heir to the larger share of his father's millions, did not bring his bride home. She brought him home—in a coffin. Almost the next day he fell ill and was dead within a week. The bride-widow, almost ill with her grief, met her father-in-law and went straight to his heart.

"You must stay here with us, my dear," said the millionaire, "and be my daughter, too. I know Will would have wished it so."

Old Man's Daughter Dead.

So the girl stayed along with the old man, and year after year made herself better loved by him. Then came another blow—his only living child, his daughter Nellie, died in Italy.

"I am afraid my poor old heart will break," said the old man, bowed under this added weight of woe.

There was no one to turn to save his daughter-in-law now. He called her to him one day soon after the funeral, and said:

"Stay here with me, for I am left alone. Be the head of my household, and when I die you will be the same in my will as if you were my own daughter. And why not? Are you not the wife of my dead son, my only boy?"

But the girl did not need this promise. She loved the old man as the father of her boy husband. Her sister came to live with them and she took her place at the head of the Brown household. The servants were instructed to obey her in everything, and wherever she went she was introduced by the millionaire as "my daughter Grace, my son's widow, dear to me as my own."

Everywhere it was understood that the young widow was to be his heiress. Folks were told that Mr. Brown's mentor when he went to New York on matters social.

Martha E. Lewis was the daughter of a boat caulker employed by Mr. Brown. When only a child in short dresses the millionaire had taken to her because she reminded him of his dead daughter when she was a tiny girl. When she grew older he made her his almoner in his many charities, and when she was out of her teens he had her made secretary of the Sunday school which he had endowed.

Gifts were showered upon her just as the were upon Miss Grace Brown. For awhile things went along smoothly enough on the surface, but Mrs. Brown gradually discovered that she was being undermined. Miss Lewis finally got control of the establishment and ran it with an iron hand.

Family Makes Objections.

The other Browns—brothers, cousins and nephews—didn't like this at all. They demanded that Miss Lewis be at least sent to live elsewhere and that Mrs. Grace Brown be brought back from Kentucky, where she had gone, to give tone to the household.

"Not for a minute," retorted the old man. "Grace has chosen to live away had long been in love. In fact, they loved each other before he was taken ill.

Here were the provisions of the will concerning the young women in the case:

Bequests to Martha Lewis.

Second—"I give and bequeath to the Union Trust company of Pittsburg first mortgage bonds of the Pittsburg Brewing company to the aggregate value of $20,000, in trust nevertheless, to pay the net interest and income therefrom to my daughter-in-law Grace M. Brown for and during the term of her natural life, if she so long remain a widow and from and after her marriage or death, in further trust to divide or distribute the principal of said trust fund to the persons hereinafter provided for in the case of my residuary estate, and I authorize and empower said trustee, to sell said bonds, and to reinvest the proceeds of sale at its discretion."

In striking contrast with this are the clauses in which Miss Lewis benefits in the following sections of the same will:

Ninth—"I give and bequeath to Miss Martha E. Lewis, of the city of Pittsburg, one-half of the residue of my library wherever the same may be situated at the appraised value thereof, she to have the right to select books to the amount of one-half. I also give and bequeath to the said Martha E. Lewis my Astoria States Racing trophy and the box of silverware which I re-

A WOMAN'S ORDEAL

DREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS

Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private life, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female disease.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise sick women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Mrs. T. C. Willadsen of Manning, Ia. She writes:

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude in words. Before I wrote to you telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steadily, and spent lots of money in medicines besides, but it all failed to do me any good. I had female trouble and would daily have fainting spells, backache, bearing-down pains, and my monthly periods were very irregular and finally ceased. I wrote to you for your advice and received a letter full of instructions as to what to do, and also commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have been restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

PERSONAL PARTICULARS.

George R. Patterson, the Pennsylvanian, who died recently, was the only "traveling man" in congress. Mr. Patterson was proud of the fact that he was a flour salesman, and had put it in his official biography.

After a period of 53 years spent in the service of the Jews' free school, Bell Lane, Spitalfields, England, L. B. Abrahams, the head master, will shortly retire. He is 67 years old. Israel Zangwill was one of his pupils. The Jews' free school is said to be the largest elementary school in the world, having 3,500 pupils.

There is nothing doubtful about the record of the descent from revolutionary stock of Mrs. Annie Knight Gregory of Selingsgrove, Pa. She is the daughter and thirteenth child of Richard Knight, who was a drummer boy 'n the continental army. Mrs. Gregory was the daughter of his third wife and was born when he was 83 years old.

One can hardly imagine that dignified and zealous temperance advocate, Lady Henry Somerset, as a practical joker, and yet it is a fact that she and her cousin, Lady Dudley, once dressed up as a pair of French tourists and in this guise and heavily veiled visited her place at Eastnor castle and went all over it. But apparently she was not sufficiently impressed by the beauties of her own residence, for afterward her housekeeper confided to her that "that duchess de Montmorency"—the name which Lady Henry had given herself—"was a disagreeable creature."

Travel Right to Oklahoma

The Missouri, Kansas & Texas R'y has recently inaugurated additional daily train for Oklahoma City, Guthrie, Cleveland, Bartlesville, Coffeyville, etc. With this added service the M. K. & T. R'y is the logical line between St. Louis and Kansas City and all principal points in Oklahoma.

Change of cars is one of the greatest inconveniences of travel. You don't have to change cars if you travel via the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway. Through trains over its own rails run between St. Louis and Kansas City and Oklahoma City, Dallas, Ft. Worth, San Antonio and Galveston. All through trains have Chair Cars and Pullman Sleepers.

How to Go

When you have occasion to travel, use the same discrimination in buying a ticket that you would in buying anything else. Assure yourself in advance of what you may expect in the way of comfort and convenience en route. If there is any information you want about a prospective trip, write me. Inception of Romance.

Fifteen years ago William Brown, the millionaire's only son, was sent to Kentucky to superintend the building of a railroad in which his father was interested. There he met a blue grass belle—beautiful Grace McGoodwin, barely turned 16.

The boy's head was turned. It was plainly love at first sight. There was an ardent courtship, and the youthful suitor won. That day there came to the old man in Pittsburg this dispatch:

Princeton, Ky. S. S. Brown, Pittsburg, Pa.: I am going to be married to the dearest girl in the world. WILL.

That same day this wire went back to Kentucky:

Martha Lewis Appears.

Mrs. Brown's sister married and she went back to Kentucky with her for a visit. That was the beginning of the end. When she returned she found that Miss Lewis had been asked to live at the Browns'.

"Grace," said the old millionaire, by way of making clear how things stood, "just take Mary and buy her some things, and show her how to wear them."

"Marty" was what Mr. Brown elected to call the pretty girl he had installed as his protegee in the big house. Young Mrs. Brown balked some, but she did as she was told. But she refused to introduce the girl to her friends, and she still was Mr. Brown's from me and I will not trouble her."

Apparently, however, the aged millionaire was still fond of his son's widow. She spent a part of the season with Mr. Brown last year and as the Christmas holidays were approaching she received a hurried call to come to the old man's bedside.

He was dying.

The young widow caught the first train. But as she sped through the darkness another will was being made in Pittsburg in the old Brown mansion. With a few strokes of the pen all she had believed was to be hers was blotted out. But no one told her this when she reached Pittsburg the next morning.

Young Mrs. Brown was received with open arms. Twenty days later Samuel S. Brown died. During those 20 days the deathbed did not come to light. Mrs. Brown's friends say that it was purposely hidden so that she would know nothing about it until it should be too late. The millionaire died, surrounded by his family, while Mrs. Brown knelt at the bedside.

Will Kept Secret.

Never were greater efforts made to keep a will from becoming public. It was filed secretly. The authorities were ordered to keep it secret and meekly complied. The family lawyer furnished an extract to the newspapers, but all reference to either of the young women in the case was carefully eliminated.

"That's all we care to give out to the newspapers," was the lawyer's curt rejoinder when pressed for an explanation.

But the New York Sunday World's correspondent in Pittsburg made things so interesting for all concerned that finally the entire contents of the will were made public as provided by law.

Then the storm broke. The feud became public property. Promptly there came a demand from the officers of the Mary Brown church that Miss Lewis resign her position in the Sunday school.

Forced to Leave Sunday School.

The church had Mr. Brown's $70,000. They cared no longer. They had bowed to his will in life, and they had installed his protegee to a position of distinction in church affairs. Now they would have no more of her. At a public hearing she was asked to resign, and she did.

Then she announced that she intended marrying and that was her ostensible reason for retiring. She and William Arthur Porter, a race-track employee of old man Brown's, cently, purchased from Heren Bros. & Co.

Tenth—"I also give and bequeath to Miss Martha E. Lewis aforesaid, first mortgage bonds of the Pittsburg Brewing company to the aggregate par value of $20,000, which I direct shall be delivered to her by my executors within 30 days after my death; and if for any reason the said bonds are not delivered within the period aforesaid, I direct my executors to pay to her on the first day of the month following my death the sum of $25 and a like sum monthly thereafter until said bonds are delivered to her."

The library from which Miss Lewis was empowered by the will to select one-half of the books is worth $50,000, and one of the most complete libraries in the city. The Astoria racing plate, which also went to Miss Lewis, was of gold, valued at $10,000. It was won by Sue Smith.

Received Many Presents.

By the will Miss Lewis got in all $60,000. This was only a small portion of her benefits. When she was 23—her last birthday—Mr. Brown handed the delighted girl $20,000 in new bills. Only a few months before he had given her a beautiful big house on Greenfield avenue, worth $20,000. This is where the bride will live when she returns from her honeymoon. She got $20,000 worth of diamonds, too, and in all $125,000 in cash, say Mrs. Brown's friends, before the old man's death.

The Browns have taken the daughter-in-law to their hearts. She is again mistress of the old Brown mansion, there to stay as long as she pleases. W. Harry Brown, the brother, even wealthier than S. S. Brown, who inherits the bulk of the estate, is understood to be against Miss Lewis' claim.

There was a tragic scene when the will was read. Mrs. Elizabeth Willard, sister of the dead man, knew nothing of it. When she heard it gave the young widow but $30,000 in beer bonds she burst out weeping and ran from the room crying: "Oh, Samuel, how could you have done this thing?"

A strange feature of this strange case is that the millionaire provided better for the young widow after her death than during her life. A niche by his direction has been reserved for her in the rich marble mausoleum out at the cemetery. There she will rest with the others of the family's dead.

And whether an old man's fickleness changed at the last or a designing girl succeeded in a plot to secure wealth at the expense of reputation and standing in society, is the question.

Probably it will be answered in the courts.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Thousands annually bear witness to the efficiency of Early Risers. These pleasant, reliable little pills have long borne a reputation second to none as a laxative and cathartic. They are as staple as bread in millions of homes. Pleasant but effective. Will promptly relieve constipation without griping. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

How to Break up a Cold.

It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin, white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's cough remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptoms, it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two. For sale by L. Taggart, J. E. Smith, Sterling Run; Crum Bros., Sinnamahoning.

When a man is in the right he can afford to await his turn.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

"No, Sir! You cannot palm off any substitutes on me. I've been using August Flower since I was a boy, and I'll have no other."

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unflinching success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the worst enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it is the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over 35 years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints. Two sizes, 25c and 75c. All druggists.
